Assuming Clinical Responsibility

Students should begin taking responsibility for the caseload as soon as possible. It may be desirable to have the student observe one or two clients before assuming the responsibility for treatment. However, the goal should be having the student assume responsibility and working toward independence as quickly as possible.