Funded by the North Carolina State Department and the Southeastern Institute for Faculty Training Outreach (SIFT-OUT) at $16,700 (April 1999).

Presentations: During the last ten years I have presented on 17 occasions at both state and regional levels in the area of early childhood

B. Clinical Service Delivery:

As a Clinical Professor, I am responsible for the clinical education of graduate students in the Communication Disorders Program, specifically in the Preschool Language Communication Center and the ASU Communication Disorders Clinic. In addition, I am responsible for the preschool speech and hearing screenings conducted in area daycare centers.

C. Clinical Supervision:

As a clinical faculty member, I engage in teaching primarily on a one-to-one basis with graduate students who are enrolled in clinical practicum. This clinical teaching is accomplished through regularly scheduled observations, supervising conferences, the review and critique of reports, clinical seminars, and serving as master clinician. This allows me to model best practices in the evaluation and intervention of a variety of communication disorders.
